A MEMORABLE EVENT

"Gentlemen, burn plenty of red fire!" That was President McKinley's emphatic dimonition to the representatives of the citizens of the District when they called to consult with him regarding the arrangements for the reception to Admiral Dewey upon his arrival in Washington. When the chief executive of the nation views the city on the night of Dewey day he will find beyond doubt that his injunction had been carried out most faithfully. That will be a night, indeed, at once re There's satisfaction in buying Shirts that can be depended on for fit, wear and colmarkable and memorable, and already active intellects are considering the various features that will combine to make it such. There is an impression in some quarters

Mr. E. J. Stellwagen. Chairman Committee on Transportation, Photograph by Rice, that Admiral Dewey will be escorted to the Capitel on Dewey day, where he will be presented with the nation's swerd, by a big parade. This idea is incorrect. The guest of honor upon that occasion will be conducted to the Capitol by a committee and the parade will take place at night.

Every Organization Invited.

Every organization in the District of Columbia will be invited to participate in the procession. Every military body, all the civic, fraternal, patriotic, social and benevpient societies and the bicycle clubs will be included. If organizations from other localities desire to take part they will be gladly welcomed, providing, of course, that they pay their own expenses to Washington and while in the city. An energetic effort will be made to have each body in line make some distinctive illumination on its own account. Those who remember the night parade in honer of Gov. Alexander R. Shepherd in 1887 will easily recall the effective herd in 1887 will easily recall the effective display made by the plate printers. Each man had one or two railroad lanterns, the glass slides of which were of blue and green and red and white. These were waved, held out at arm's length, and given various movements with great effect. This is but an instance of what can be done on Dewey night by the bodies in the parade, and there will be fruitful suggestions by the trees. sented to Admiral Dewey was shown. The cup is to be of pure gold, with three panels. The first panel will bear the picture of an eagle supporting a portrait of Dewey, the second a portrait of the Olympia and the will be fruitful suggestions by the score soon forthcoming, as the country is being scoured for original ideas by the energetic ommittee men having the reception

Activity Already Noticeable.

The Young Men's Christian Association contemplates turning out in a body in the parade, and the Carroll Institute is considering the same thing. They may both be depended upon to present original and unique displays in the way of transparencies and other features. A general inten-tion on the part of the other societies par-ticipating to adopt similar plans will make the individual brilliancy of the parade scarcely less notable than the external ilumination. The German societies can be epended upon for an artistic display, as they have never been found lacking upon such occasions, as the recent peace jubilee elebration, to go back no further, so effectively proved.

paniment plans are already being considered. There will be a large number of tin holders secured in which the red fire can be safely burned during the passing of the parade. These holders will be large pans attached to arms, at the end of which will be strong clamps that will permit their being attached to lamp posts, electric light poles, telegraph poles, awning posts and trees. The red fire will be placed in the pans and lighted as the parade approaches, and as it is passing the fires will be kept up by men and boys, who will be secured for the purpose and be able to take care of several of the holders each and keep the illumination going.

The citizens along the line of the parade will be urged to illuminate and decorate their premises, not only by the window il-lumination described in The Evening Star yesterday, but by various other means The gas company and the electric company will be asked to co-operate for the purpose of making necessary connections for the display of lighted designs, such as stars, wreaths, flags and other appropriate emblems in front of the premises of those who are willing to spend a dollar or two to make Dewey night momentous. Those who do not wish to go to even this small expense can meet in the general cele-bration by stringing wires in front of their houses and hanging from them the little glass cups containing floating lights. These cups come in all colors and tints, are inex-pensive and make a most artistic display when intelligently arranged. Outside Organizations May Come.

It is probable that many outside organiza tions will participate in the parade, thus giving their members an opportunity not only to do honor to the great Dewey, but to see Washington in all its marvelous beauty. Perhaps the Vermont National Guard will come. Vermont is the native state of the hero of Manila, and recently its governor requested the right of line for the state troops in the proposed Dewey parade in Greater New York. Vermont's governor was sent a curt reply that "the New York celebration was to be a New York affair," or words to that effect. Of course this is true, as the only really national ovation to Admiral Dewey will be given, as it appropriately should be, at Washington, the nation's capital.

Committee on Transportation. The committee on transportation, which will have in charge the very important duty of procuring from the various railroad companies and systems reduced rates of transportation for persons coming from distant points to the Dewey day celebration, was announced this afternoon. The influential character of the gentlemen composing it is

Matter of Issuing Permit to Metropolitan 21 18

Railroad Company. Attorney Duvall Says the Commissioners Have No Authority in the Matter.

Mr. H. L. Hart, general superintendent of the Metropolitan Railroad Company, recently applied to the District Commissioners for permit authorizing the company to lay underground tracks, switches, etc., on Florida avenue between 10th and 11th streets, for the purpose of connecting up the tracks of the company at 10th street with the car barn located on 11th street. The application was referred by the Commissioners to their attorney for an opinion in the matter. Today that official advised them that they are without authority to grant the desired permit.

Mr. Wolf, as chairman of the committee on medals and badges submitted a report embracing ropolitan company from its present terminus on Florida avenue near 19th street, in a generally western direction, along Florida avenue to the car barn of the Belt railway on Florida avenue between 10th and 11th streets, with turn-outs from the south track only into this car barn. Also the extension of the double tracks of the Belt railway from its present terminus at 11th street and Florida avenue in a generally eastern direction along Florida avenue until they meet the Metropolitan company's tracks extended as above stated and badges, submitted a report embracing the recommendations of his committee on the subject of souvenir medals and badges for the members of the various committees having the reception and its details in charge. The report, which was adopted, provides for the striking off of 2 500 medals, tracks extended as above stated. to weigh not more than two ounces each, from the bronze of a torpedo captured by Admiral Dewey's fleet in Manila bay, which Basis of Application.

The application of the Metropolitan company was based upon section 10 of the act of Congress approved July 1, 1864, incorporating the road. That section is similar to one contained in the act incorporating the Washington and Georgetown Railroad capitol building, and a lower bar will contain the inscription "Manila, May 1, 1898."
The medal will rest upon a silk ribbon, upon which the national colors and the flag of Admiral Dewey will be entwined. The contract was awarded to John K. Davison of Philadelphia Company, authorizing the company to pro-cure such passenger rooms, ticket offices, stables and depots at such points as the business of the railroad and the convenient may require; to lay such rails through transverse or other streets as may be nec essary for the exclusive purpose of con-necting the said stables and depots with the main tracks, and to purchase or lease such lands or buildings as may be necessary for such passenger rooms, ticket of-fices, stables and depots.

It will be recalled that when, several

It will be recalled that when, several months ago, the Capital Traction Company, as the successor of the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company, desired to construct a loop at the Mount Pleasant terminus of its 14th street line it based its application for a permit to extend its tracks upon such alleged congressional authority, and the then attorney for the District, Mr. S. T. Thomas, held that the Commissioners were authorized to grant the desired per-mit. The present attorney, Mr. A. B. Du-vall, it would appear, does not agree with his predecessor. Speaking of the applica-tion of the Metropolitan company and of the act of Congress upon which it was based he says:

based he says:

"The authority to lay rails through transverse or other streets by this section is confined to 'such as may be necessary for the exclusive purpose of connecting the said stables and depots with the main tracks.' The grant is couched in restrictive terms; it is based upon 'necessity,' and is limited to 'the exclusive purpose of connecting the stables with the main tracks.

The Real Object. "The necessity of the proposed 'lay-out' is not as plain as its desirability. It is quite apparent that its purpose is not exclusively to connect the stables with the main tracks, but to complete a double-track connection between the Metropolitan and Belt Line systems with four single track lateral connections running from the pro-posed new south track into the Belt Line posed new south track into the Belt Line car barn. Another, very substantial difficulty presents itself in this manner: The car barn was the property of the Belt Line Railroad Company. The Metropolitan Railroad Company's line terminated on Florida avenue near 10th street, and I am unable to find any authority of law for the extension of the line of the Metropolitan railroad.

"The act of Congress To define the

"The act of Congress To define the rights of the purchasers of the Belt railway,' approved June 24, 1898, does not authorize the extension of the tracks of that company, in order to meet the tracks of any purchasing company, nor vice versa. ton is necessary in order to complete the track connections at this point between the Metropolitan and Belt Line systems. In my opinion, the Commissioners are without authority to grant the desired permit. Capt. Craighill, the acting Engineer Commissioner, has approved the opinion, and has recommended that the Metropolitan Railroad Company be informed that the application for the permit must be denied. This recommendation, it is believed, will be adopted by his associates.

DEATH OF JUDGE JAMES.

He Served Upon the District Suprem Bench for Thirteen Years. Charles P. James, associate justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, retired, died this morning at the Wallach homestead, near Leesburg, Va. The deceased was more than eighty years of age. His residence in this city was at 1824 Massachusetts avenue. For some time past, however, he has made his home with his son-in-law, Mr. Robert Wallach, at Leesburg. The remains will be taken tomorrow to New Haven, Conn., for interment. In addition to Mr. Wallach, the two daughters of Justice James, Mrs. Wallach and Miss James, were with him at the end. Although no specific cause of death is stated. Justice James had been in a feeble condition for some time past, and owing to that fact, in conjunction with his advanced years, it seems, he succumbed. Justice James was a native of Ohio, and his appointment on the local bench, made by President Hayes in 1879, was credited to that state. He had, however, been a resident of this city for a number of years previously. He was at one time a member of a commission engaged in the revision of the laws, and also practiced law here, his partner being James H. Saville, formerly chief clerk of the Treasury Department.

The appointment of Justice James was a The appointment of Justice James was a recess nomination to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Humphrey.

CASE DISMISSED.

No Charge of Fraud Established Against Edward Jackson. Edward R. Jackson, real estate broker, who was arrested yesterday, as stated in The Star, by Detectives Parham and Gallaher on a charge of false pretenses sworn to by William T. Thorne, was in Police Court today to answer to the charge against him.

Owen Thorne alleged that Jackson se cured $100 from him in an unlawful manner, and said that in reply to an advertisement which he saw in a Sunday paper he last week entered into a contract with Jackson to become cashier of a wood and coal yard at the corner of 2d and N streets southwest, where Jackson claimed to be doing a large business. Jackson informed the witness, the latter asserted, that he wanted $300 cash as security for the hon-esty of witness. After some conversation Thorne handed Jackson $100 on account, and received from him therefor a promis sory note due in three months.

Detective Parham said he investigated the location of the alleged coal yard as ven by Jackson to Thorne and found that there is no coal yard at the place stated or anywhere in that neighborhood. Lewin McDonald testified that he and Jackson were running a coal yard on James Creek canal between N and O streets, and that he had been doing business there for five years. Judge Mills said no case of fraud had been made out against Jackson, and dismissed him.

ALLEGED VIOLATION.

Ernest Hazen Fined for Failing to Comply With Regulations.

Ernest C. Hazen, owner of premises No 906 G street southwest, was this afternoon arraigned before Judge Mills on the charge of violating the plumbing regulations by refusing and neglecting to place a soil pipe inside of that house after being notified to do so by the plumbing department. The evidence for the government showed that the permit issued to Mr. Hazen authorized him to repair a bath room on the premises, provided he would place the soil pipe inside the building.

Mr. Hazen admitted that he did not comply with the terms of the permit, and explained that he acted as he had because he had just had the house newly painted and papered, and to put the pipe where he had promised would cost him probably Judge Mills said the state of affairs was unfortunate for Mr. Hazen, but did not excuse violation of law and imposed a fine Lawyer Colbert gave notice of intention to appeal the case for his client, and the latter was released on personal bands to file a real estate bond tomorrow. Society Incorporated.

SNELL INDICTMENT

Grand Jury to Report True Bill Monday Next.

STATEMENT BY ATTORNEY H. E. DAVIS

Impracticability of an Eearly Trial of the Case.

QUOTATIONS FROM THE LAW

The grand jury, according to the plans of the United States attorney, will report an indictment, Monday next, alleging murder on the part of Benjamin He Snell in connection with the killing of Lizzie Weisenberger. At the conclusion of its session yesterday afternoon the grand jury was excused until Monday, having considered the case fully. In the meantime the United States attorney will frame the indictment and have it in readiness for the signature of Foreman Shoemaker when the jury shall assemble to report to the court Monday. Several other indictments will be handed in at the same time.

In speaking of the impracticability of holding an early trial in the case of Snell, United States Attorney Davis this afternoon made a statement:

"The existing law in relation to petit

Existing Law. The statement is as follows:

juries in the District of Columbia is the act of March 1, 1889, which went into effect on the 15th day of June of that year. By this law the Supreme Court of the District, in general term, has the power by rule of court to regulate the period of holding its terms, as also the periods of all the special terms, and to fix the number of such terms, and to alter the same from time to time, as public convenience may require. The term of service of jurors, whether for a circuit court or a criminal court, begins on the first Tuesday in each and every month in which jury trials may be had, and terminates on the Monday preceding the first Tuesday of the following month, except when the jury may be discharged by the court at an earlier day, provided that when any jury shall have been actually empaneled for the trial of any cause, the jurymen composing the same shall be liable to continue in service until finally discharged from said cause. discharged from said cause. At least ten days before the first Tuesday in each month when jury trials are to be had, the names of the persons to serve as jurors are drawn by the clerk, and notice of their selection is given the jurymen by the marshal.

Rule of the Court. "By rule of the Supreme Court of the District the terms of the Criminal Court are held on the first Tuesday of each of the months of January, April and October, and each term continues until the commencement of the next succeeding term. The jury in attendance at any circuit court or criminal court may, however, be The Jury in account may, however, be court or criminal court may, however, be discharged by the justice presiding at any time during the term, and when once discharged there is no provision, either of law or rule of court, for recalling the jury so discharged. In June the court directed so discharged. so discharged. In June the court directed that no juries for the month of July should be summoned and also announced that there would be no more jury trials until October. Whether the court now has power to cause a jury to be summoned for September, is a question which has never before arisen in the history of the court, and during its whole existence it has been the practice of the court to have transfer. the practice of the court not to have jury trials in either August or September, ex-cept in cases in which at the adjournment of the courts for vacation adjournment has been had to a day certain in September. Under the existing law such adjournment cannot be had, as the term of service of each jury is specifically limited to the month beginning with the first Tuesday of the month for which such jury is summoned, and as the law in terms prescribes that the term of service of each jury shall begin on the first Tuesday in each and month in which jury trials shall be had, it is necessary, in order for the clerk to draw a jury, that he must have in mind some specific month in which jury trials are had.

No Jury Before October. "Under the circumstances, although I greatly regret it, I do not see how any jury can be drawn to serve before October, The existing arrangement has been in effect for so long a time that any attempt to draw a jury for the month of September would be so strange as to be in effect revolutionary of the practice of the court In the present instance this is deplorable. in view of the heinousness of Snell's crime, but even were it possible to call a jury for September that could not be done without an order of the General Term, which would in effect be an amendment of the existing rules of the court, and I am sure that such action would not be thought of except upon condition of concurrence of all the judges sitting in General Term, which would, of ourse, involve the recalling of all the judges from their vacation for the special

SNELL'S VICTIM BURIED. Funeral Services Over Remains of

Lizzie Weisenberger. The funeral of Lizzie Weisenberger, the little girl murdered by Benjamin H. Snell. took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon from the home of her parents on 19th street near Benning road, as stated in yesterday's Star. It was not until the coffin was covered and the funeral procession started from the house that the curious people and sympathizing friends stopped calling. In the room adjoining that in which the foul crime was committed but two days before neighbors assembled and took a las look at the face of the little one whom they had known so well. Many of them followed to the church on 8th street, where almost every seat was already filled. When the coffin had been put in position before the pulpit and the been seated, the Rev. J. E. A. Doermann who officiated in the absence of the pastor offered prayer.

"Thou art a God that hidest Thyself" were the words chosen for the text of a brief sermon. During the course of the sermon the minister spoke of the deceased, whom he had seen in apparent good health only a few days ago. He said he would not dwell upon the crime that had resulted in bringing together so many friends and relatives of the deceased. The act of the assailant, he said, was undepended by a cruel one and words could not doubtedly a cruel one, and words could not express the horrors of it. Had he been called to arouse the indignation of his hearers his task would have been an easy one, but this he did not intend to do.

Why God allowed this child to pass away in that manner he could only explain by referring to his text. In conclusion, the minister said he hoped the officers of the law would do their duty in the matter, and he knew that God would be merciful. At the conclusion of the minister's re-marks the coffin cover was removed and those present were permitted to look once more upon the face of the dead child. Floral tributes were sent by the Rosedale Mission and by fellow workmen of Mr. Weisenberger, as well as by the young friends of the deceased. There was quite a gathering of people at Prospect Hill cemetery to hear the last prayer over the dead and to see the body
